2. What each tab does

Tab	How to use it
Practice MCQs	Choose a topic or mix, then start a set of 20 questions. Answer, submit, and see your score, your score by topic, and a worked explanation for every question.
Solved MCQ bank	Browse all 200 solved questions per subject, 10 per page. Best for revision once you have attempted a set.
Essay practice	You get one theory question at a time. Write your answer on paper first, then reveal the examiner-style marking scheme and model answer and tick the marks you earned.
Solved essay bank	All 50 theory questions per subject with the marking scheme, a model answer and examiner notes on how marks are lost.
Predicted 2027 essays	Ten AI-generated predicted theory questions per subject, each with a full solution. Attempt before you reveal.

3. How to get the best results

- Daily rhythm: one MCQ set (20 questions) and one essay in the morning, then review every mistake before bed.
- Fix by topic: after each set, read the "By topic" list and go back to your weakest topic first.
- Mark honestly: in essay practice, tick only the marks you truly earned. The M, A, B and E codes show where marks come from (method, accuracy, independent, explanation).
- Your questions rotate: the center serves you questions in your own order and does not repeat until you have seen the whole bank. You and a friend will usually get different questions.
- Use all five subjects: aim for balanced scores, since JAMB and WAEC reward a strong spread.

Original practice, not real past papers. Every question is written in the style and difficulty of WAEC, NECO, UTME and Post-UTME. The predicted essays are AI-generated estimates based on the syllabus and recurring question styles. They are not leaks and they are not guaranteed to appear.
